

Program Manager

C-Axis PR, Inc. is a manufacturer of high quality precision machined parts primarily for the medical device industry. We are currently seeking an energetic, highly motivated and self-starter to join our team.

Primary Objective of Position

Thorough understanding of the customer's needs and provide solutions. Effectively manage and grow assigned customer accounts to achieve Customer Satisfaction and company objectives. Provide project leadership on a day-to-day basis for all phases of customer projects from inception to completion.

Responsibilities:

- Develop strategies that result in customer engagement and sales growth
- Establish new accounts and maintain current accounts
- Act as a leader with effective communication throughout the organization to ensure program execution and success
- Develop detailed work elements, project tasks, critical milestones and contingency plans to achieve and meet project requirements
- Maintain close relationship with customers to understand their requirements. Provide continuous support for improvements and growth
- Work with internal and external and external customers to provide a high level of customer satisfaction.

Essential Requirements:

- Bachelor degree or equivalent experience
- Experience in medical device or pharmaceutical industry a must
- Over 4 years of experience
- Ability to manage machining/assembly projects
- Proven customer service and negotiation skills
- Strong leadership skills to drive the organization to execute plans in a successful manner
- Excellent communication and presentation skills, both oral and written in Spanish and English
- Computer literate (Project, Excel, Power Point, Word)

Only qualified candidates send resume to: marjories@c-axis.com